Harper R. Skaare is a dedicated and compassionate nursing student at the University of Mary, where she is part of the Nursing Academy and a consistent Dean's List honoree. With a strong academic foundation and a heart for service, Harper is committed to providing high-quality, patient-centered care—especially for pediatric and vulnerable populations.

Her hands-on experience as an in-home pediatric care provider for a child with developmental disabilities has strengthened her clinical awareness, patience, and ability to build meaningful relationships with patients and families. In addition, her work as an accounting intern has sharpened her attention to detail, organization, and professionalism.

Harper's leadership extends beyond the workplace. She has actively served her school and community through roles in student government, ministry, and service organizations, as well as through volunteer work with childcare programs and donor registry initiatives. A multi-sport athlete and team leader, she brings resilience, discipline, and a collaborative spirit to everything she does.

Grounded in faith, service, and a commitment to lifelong learning, Harper aspires to make a meaningful impact in the nursing profession by advocating for others and delivering compassionate, holistic care.
